

The Lumen Prize, the world's leading digital art award, has launched the Meural Student Award with a cash prize of $500 and opportunities for exhibition globally for the winner. The competition is free for any enrolled student creating digital art and the Call for Entries is open until June 1.

Now in its 7th year, the Lumen Prize celebrates and promotes artists working with technology through a juried competition and worldwide exhibitions. The competition is $47.50 to enter but this fee is waived for students.
